

SACRAMENTO OR BUST

CHOOSE YOUR MISADVENTURE

In this gripping gamebook, Eddie Fernandez, a former Marine turned political hopeful, is looking to exorcise his demons from his combat deployment to Afghanistan by running for political office. With his family life hanging in the balance, Eddie must navigate a treacherous campaign trail filled with ruthless political opponents and ethical dilemmas. As Eddie fights for redemption, the reader has to take the reins and make crucial decisions along his journey. If you enjoyed the suspenseful world of House of Cards, you'll love Sacramento or Bust: Choose Your Misadventure.

APPROVED

ABOUT THE AUTHOR:

BIOGRAPHY

Henry Bouchot served in the United States Marines and as a councilmember in Whittier. He is originally from Boyle Heights in Los Angeles. He is the author of A Millennial's Guide to Running for Office: How to Get Elected Without Kissing the Ring, Sonnets of Sin & Salvation: A Tale of Partisanship & Pragmatism in the Age of Donald Trump, and Public Record, a novel. He is married to Christina Bouchot and has two sons.

EXCERPT:

"Listen, you should be proud of yourself,' your brother-in-law tells you at your home on election night. It's 9:30 p.m. after most of your guests have already left your backyard election-night party."

"It's important to have people run for these seats. It makes a difference. And this'll set you up if you want to run again later.' You smile and nod, although you can't recall who came in second place just two senate races ago."

REVIEWS

NATHAN GONZALEZ

What strikes me most about this book is the way Henry helps you understand that, in a way, the war is never truly left behind. For those who want to know more about Afghanistan or what returning veterans experience, this is a great place to look.

HANS TREMMEL

If you have ever faced ups and downs of work - overbearing bosses, cutthroat coworkers, the temptation to cut corners, the thrill of a big promotion - you will feel right at home with Sacramento or Bust.

DISCUSSION TOPICS

- Why politics is not as easy as it looks.
- Why we are the sum of the choices we make
- What happens when ambition and family life meet head-on.
- There a moral wounds in combat as well as physical ones.
- How ego and altruism conflict in politics.
- How agency makes you feel empowered as a voter.
- How gamebooks are poised to make a comeback

BOOK DETAILS:

AUTHOR: HENRY BOUCHOT

RELEASE DATE: DECEMBER 11, 2023

CATEGORY: LITERATURE & FICTION

ADDITIONAL DETAILS:

- Categories: Satire, Literary Fiction
- Price: $9.99
- ISBN: 978-1-7350507-5-1
- Page count: 105
- Imprint: John Henry Publishers
- Distribution: Amazon, Findaway Voices

